“ Remembering Cynthia today. Celebrating her life and all the good she gave to the world. Her genuine kindness, love, and uncompromising faith are attributes that will always define her and the positive impact of her life continues today. Some days it would be nice to hear her give her opinion on important matters once again, but she was always so candid and truthful it's pretty clear what she would say without her saying it. So very grateful for the life lessons she spoke and exemplified.

Celebrating you today Cynthia.

"Go to church. Laugh often. Love much. Don't lie. Never cheat."

“We have the best support system, truly💛 Remember the forever cherished memories. They are one of a kind. As tragic as this date may be, mom would want all of us smiling together. X's & O's to you all throughout today. Love you” - Morgan, youngest sibling

3 years have passed and it feels like just yesterday we were re-living a nightmare. . This day will always be a special one. As time goes, you learn to appreciate life, love a lot stronger, value relationships and to truly cherish each moment, never taking anyone or anything for granted. . to remember all of the witty things, words of wisdom, never ending conversations that felt like just minutes, and to truly reflect on all of our memories. . and to acknowledge how greatly blessed we were to have someone so amazing, such as our Mom, who also impacted so many lives of those surrounding. A woman of faith, love, kindness, purity, integrity, loyalty, nurturing, a listener. . who embodied how to truly ‘talk the talk’, believed and ‘walk the walk.’ If we could all ever be so lucky to live by this and meet our maker in heaven, that would be the ultimate paradise.

Today is the feast of Corpus Christi and the hour of mercy is from 3:00-4:00PM. Mom passed at 3:11PM. In our eyes, this was a sign to let us know that she was / is ok and in heaven with our Father. It doesn't get any easier. You don't forget. You simply learn how to cope, work through to live with such a huge loss and to forever cherish the time spent together and to always carry Mom with you. We will always remember our beautiful mother, wife, daughter and grandmother. . Continue to guide, protect and watch over us, our forever guardian angel. We love you so much Mommy and miss you more than words can ever express nor explain! [6.7.2018]

“ So sad to hear Cindy passed away so young and vibrant. Sarah was coached by Don which is how we met this wonderful, vivacious, integral family. Sarah spent many weekends with Morgan on four wheelers and many other exciting family activities shared with this tight knit family. I never had to worry because Momma Cindy ran a tight ship and was the best mom ever!. Cindy will be sorely missed and forever in our hearts.

“ To the Smith and Kollar families, I am so very sorry to have just learned of the passing of Cindy....we were high school friends and graduated in the same year. I will always remember Cindy for her kindness, graciousness, friendship and her infectious smile. She was so talented, smart, and beautiful. The world had lost a bright spot....but heaven is full of light with her there. Praying for the healing of your broken heart.
