“ I can't imagine this mortal world without Babe. Her smile and her enthusiasm could fill an entire room. She was always "open and receptive" to everything wonderful and although often times she got the hard road instead, she NEVER got discouraged, always looked on the bright side, and counted her blessings. Anyone who knew Babe knew Conrad was her pride and joy and having spoken to her only a few days before her passing, I know his arrival into town to be with her was the highlight of those difficult days. She adored him and he did her so proud! Babe will never be forgotten. She has left her mark on this entire town, in all of our hearts, and all our days will be a little darker without her. Our solace lies knowing she is in paradise with the Lord telling her, "Well done my good and faithful servant".
Until we meet again. xo

“ I was so sad to hear about Babe's passing from her son last week. I will always remember her smile, laugh and happy outlook on life. We met many years ago when our kids became friends at the neighborhood park for play dates. We lost touch after moving and our kids got older ... but would see each other occasionally with her work when we built our home. As our kids reached college years, they were reconnected in a fraternity at UF - not remembering their young play dates. But, Babe and I did. I know the last time we saw each other we laughed about how small the world really is and I was reminded how fast life goes by. Her smile got bigger when we spoke about Conrad and my kids....and she reminded me how I of a important being mom was to her. There are really good people in this world, and Babe, you are one of them. RIP - you will be missed but not forgotten.
