“ Lisa is a roll model for all of us. She always conducted herself with dignity and grace, always thinking of others before herself. I feel so lucky and blessed that I had the privilege to work with Lisa and share a special friendship. I will miss our conversations, her wit, her humor, her words of wisdom and her love. Quite simply Lisa was one of the most beautiful persons I have ever met and I'm forever grateful for how she touched my life.

“ Everyone who knew Lisa loved her dearly. She was a cornerstone of a loving, tight knit family. The emptiness her family and friends feel due to her tragic loss cannot be replaced. Now, she is in the safest place she could be in, Jehovah's memory. And although this loss comes with terrible pain, Jehovah has not left us without hope. Everyone who loved Lisa will surround her family to help cushion the effects of this tragedy. Soon, Jehovah will simply say, "Lisa, come on out!" How wonderful that will be! We will be so overwhelmed with joy and happiness when we see her again in paradise! Until then, we all have to be brave and strong, like Lisa was right up until the end. Lisa will always remain a remarkable example of a loving and faithful wife, mother, grandmother and our dear friend. Her qualities are rare and beautiful and should prompt us all to try to emulate them ourselves. She is an extraordinary example for us all!
