“ I remember asking uncle Jack his secret recipe for his gravy. He was very happy to not only tell me, but show me the magic ingredients and the care he took when mixing the flour. Donna and I enjoyed the times we spent in Babylon as their neighbors and the many good meals as it was the first year we were married. Uncle Jack shared all of the good places to get bagels and meat. I also recall many conversations about investments, unions, and the stock market. He always had a good story to tell about something to do with New York City and the craziness that goes on there.
