“ oh mills i miss you so much i wish we could swap places u never deserve to go like that you would always wake me up in the morning to get up and ready even on the days i wasn't feeling the best. i promise u ill keep u alive in everything i do i can't go a day without crying about you . my built in best friend almost everyday i see angel numbers and every good thing that happens to me im like oh that's millie alright and all of this happen right when u were getting out of ur shell starting to hang with your own people and i was starting to get really closer with u i miss when u used to come home and show me ur night out i was so jealous but happy that u were getting out and when matthew and caleb came over you never told me to go away or leave u alone like any other sibling when their friends were over oh and how i miss matthew no words can describe how much i miss you both i bottle up my feeling and u were the only one to get me to spill i miss u being the next room over i miss our daily arguments i lost a peice of me when you died and ill never get that back mills.. until i see u again . love ollie
