Such a good construction worker and always always willing to go above in beyond in all your carpentry skills. May your rest in peace. “ Lem was a brother from another mother. We were in the bees together. We lived together, worked together, partied together, fought back to back and went home on leave together. Your laugh echoes in my head and I'm blessed to have that. I love you brother and miss you!!Knuckles

“ Lem, You were one of the most funniest guys I have ever had the pleasure to be around. After all the years talking to you on the phone was like seeing you last week. When we served together it was one of the best times of my life. We were wild, crazy and free and raised a lot of hell. I will miss you my brother. It was my pleasure to have and call you my friend Dennis J. Smith (Smitty or Doogan)
