“ Vic! What's going on...as you would say! :)
I listen to your voicemail messages and I read your text messages all the time.
I know you are with us every single day.
As promised - we are watching over Greg, Amanda, Ashley and Roxy Roo! We all continue to get through each day and we all continue to think about you! You're not missing out on our lives because you are still with us and you know everything that's going on - no doubt in my mind! You've always taken care of everyone else, now it's time to take care of yourself - you rest, Vic.
I love and miss you more and more each day. God Bless You.

“ Hi Vic,
I miss you...we all miss you!
Mom mentions you all of the time and says that she misses your phone calls in the morning. She'll always recite something that you said during one of your calls.
I hope that when everyone thinks of you today, it is with a little lighter heart and a smile remembering something that you said or did!! ;)
I love you!

“ Vic,

When does the pain stop and the sweetness of the memories begin. I miss you, we are all so devastated without you. I look at all our texts and just pretend you're still here. Pretend I can talk to you whenever I want, pretend you'll be here this summer , pretend I didn't lose my big sis. I'm trying so hard to celebrate your life and talk about all the good times but my heart isn't ready. Love you forever and ever. Miss you forever and ever
