“ Dear Grampy, There's so many memories that come to mind when I think of you. As a kid, I remember time spent in Indiantown and Walpole. With all the great memories a few things in particular come to mind: easter golf cart parades, dates at Applebees (those Riblets were your favorite), the Rock (as a kid that thing was huge), cigars and Bill Ronan, you fixing anything and everything, you and Grammy at every occasion, anchovie pizza, not making you get the 'burlap bag', mangia, the Italian genetics and you passing on those light blue eyes. More recent memories: you asking for Grammy after she passed, your friendship and companionship with Paul and the 'Frat House,' you singing to Grandma in the hospital and not wanting to leave her side, you holding Grammy's hand, visits to 'Filadelphia' where you would share childhood stories like they were yesterday. I think it is true. We keep those memories with us and they become even more powerful and memorable with you gone. As much as we would have liked to keep you here forever, you can now be home with Grammy and rest. I am so happy I got one last squeeze from you. You taught us that family is everything. You showed me life is precious. Thank you for shaping my life more than you'll ever know. I love you and will always remember you and hope to make you proud. Kimmie

“ Some chapters in our life are long and some are painfully short. I am blessed that the chapters in my life with Dad were long, strong and filled with love and wonderful memories. He was my rock, the person who taught me that family comes first and lasts forever. He loved his children, marveled at his grandchildren and cherished his great grandchildren. He was my hero and my one and only Daddy. I love you Dad and know that you are happy and content to be with Mom again. I will miss you. All my love, Donna
